out of North Carolina Series The University of Texas at San Antonio's men's basketball team is taking a break from the annual battle against North Carolina State for the sixth year in a row. UTSA will not face the Wolfpack in the early-season championship known as the "Battle 4 Atlantis." After finishing the three-day tournament, a record 10 Southland Conference teams will compete in the annual NIT on Saturday. The sixth-ranked Roadrunners, who were defeated by North Carolina in last year's finale, finished with a 4-2 record in Atlantis.
They were ranked 15th in the country before losing in the semifinals to Michigan. UTSA took a break from its traditional rivalry with N.C. State and the many other schools that make up the 8 Where it's from It's from the department of transportation. They were able to do it because there was a study done on the roads. Before they did the study they couldn't tell how much it would cost to do it. Nevada DOT Study Before the study was done they looked at all the drives and compared them all with each other. They compared them to the roads that were under construction and the roads that were in use. They found that it would take about 2 years to do and it would cost about $2 million. This is the kind of study they did for every segment of the highway. Every six months they look at the costs. Before the study, they could not tell how much it would cost to build the roads. With this study they figured that they could build the roads at the same time because they figured that it would take about two years to build. It only cost $2 million so it would be cheaper.
